SOLONS GET 'LAW COURSE'

Junkyard Law Is Labeled Worthless By Councilman

The city fathers took a short course in law from City Solicitor George Gerhardt Tuesday night, and graduated with revised ideas concerning the duties of the city's law enforcement officials.

The result was an attempt by one councilman to bring about repeal of two ordinances which he declared were "unenforceable and therefore worthless."

The attempt failed and the councilman, Councilman Ray Cook, walked out of the meeting in a huff. The tutelage began during a recess period and continued in official session when the legislators sought the advice of the solicitor concerning enforcement of a city ordinance prohibiting the establishment of junkyards without special permission.

THE ORDINANCE was passed during a special session of council last March, and apparently was pinpointed at A. G. Barthelmas, auto parts dealer, who filed a deed to a tract of land on East Main street facing Eastmore Development section at 3:45 p. m. March 29.

He erected a sign on the property identifying it as an auto parts business and began hauling in equipment March 30. The ordinance was effective as of passage date—March 30. It was not retroactive.

Council recently sought to have the ordinance enforced, and asked city lawmen to make arrests. Police officials held back, however, pointing out that the liability for false arrest lay upon the police officer, not upon the city.

All this Gerhardt explained to council, stressing that if the legislators wanted a test case to find out whether the ordinance is constitutional, they should urge persons directly affected to sign the affidavit of complaint.

The matter came out on the floor Tuesday night when Councilman Cook moved to have another ordinance drawn up repealing both the law requiring permits for junkyards and the bill creating a city zoning and planning commission.

HE SAID THAT if the one was unenforceable, then the other would be also. There was no second to his motion. Councilmen Ray Anderson and Robert Adkins pointed out that while they agreed with Cook on repeal of the ordinance regulating junkyards, they thought the planning and zoning ordinance "too valuable to repeal."

WISSANT, France, Aug. 17—A 20-mile an hour wind and generally poor weather forced postponement today of Shirley May France's hope for a midnight start on her attempt to swim the English Channel.

Her manager, Ted Warner, announced from Dover that the plan for a start tonight has been cancelled.

SANITARY OUTLETS BEING TAPPED

City Asked To Pay Damages Caused By Backed-Up Sewer

A letter requesting $3,000 from Circleville for damages allegedly caused by defective sewers jolted the city fathers into a sober discussion of a long standing problem—how to improve the city's sewer system.

The discussion revealed that a large portion of the city is being inadequately drained. The legislators swapped facts to bare the existence of open sanitary sewers, storm waters being drained into pipes designed to carry waste, and small diameter sewers being used for work requiring large diameters.

The letter, from M. E. Swackhammer of North Court street, stated that on two occasions surface water draining into a sanitary sewer caused waste material to back up and flood his cellar. The letter asked council for $3,000 reimbursement for damages.

Swackhammer, who was present in council chamber, said that many similar cases exist in his section of the city.

PRESIDENT of Council Luther Bower referred the letter to the committee on laws and claims.

Councilmen blamed most of the sewer trouble on residents who have tapped sanitary sewers to drain storm waters from their property. Councilman Ray Anderson made a motion to have a notice published warning against this practice. The motion was carried.

Councilman E. L. Montgomery suggested that Service Director John Neuding use dye in the sewers to find out if storm waters are being carried in sanitary sewers. Neuding said he would use the method.

After the meeting Anderson said that a recent check by a committee revealed that an ancient box sewer running along Mound and Mingo streets, crossing Main street and emptying into Hargus creek had been crushed in along a portion of its length sometime during the 1930s.

He said 12-inch pipe was then installed to carry off water from the three-foot box sewer at the point where it had been crushed. At the other end of the box sewer a 15-inch pipe had been installed to form an outlet into Hargus creek.

Anderson reported that a plugged sewer in the southend has caused damage to a field of sweet corn. He said the sewer, which drains a large area in the southend, leaves South Court street as a 30-inch pipe.

AFTER CROSSING the Veterans Addition, the pipe narrows to 24 inch and runs to a point just beyond the corporation line, where it ceases to be a pipe and becomes an open ditch. The sewer pipe starts again at a point near the Pennsylvania Railroad, and continues to the Scioto river.

Anderson said the pipe is broken at the lower end, near the railroad tracks, and water from the sewer backs up and floods nearby corn fields. He said that factory water being drained into the ditch is not the cause of the flooding, because tests made during late afternoon have indicated only four inches of water entering the open section of the sewer.

Service Director Neuding said he believed it was the city's duty to see that the sewer is kept clean.

Since two state highway ditches also empty into the sewer, City Solicitor George Gerhardt was instructed to contact State Highway department to find out if they will share a portion of the cost of repairs.

The city fathers also pondered the problem of how to route a new sanitary sewer for the northwest section of the city. A $25,000 bond issue to purchase the new sewer is being processed in council.

5-Mill Levy Is Expected

City Educators Schedule Vote

Circleville voters probably will be asked to vote for a five-mill school operating levy when they go to the polls next November.

The Circleville board of education, absent two members, Tuesday tentatively agreed that the five-mill rate probably will be the most desirable to place before the voters in the coming elections.

A vote on a resolution to set the five-mill rate was unobtainable Tuesday night since Mrs. Lillian Moore and James I. Smith were not present. The resolution requires the approval of four of the five members, according to Carl Leist, board president.

Meanwhile, however, the board considered all aspects of the situation during its Tuesday session, reaching an agreement that the five-mill levy would be most suitable.

BASICALLY, the educators are asking only for a two-mill increase in present taxation.

Leist explained that a three-mill renewal was to have been placed before the voters automatically this Fall, while the proposed five-mill assessment would mean the three-mill renewal coupled with a two-mill increase.

Primarily the panel will request the additional two mills for current operating expenses in connection with staffing and maintaining the northend elementary school building, which is expected to be completed in 1950.

"The voter should not confuse our request for additional current operating expenses with the building bond fund, however," said Leist. "They are separate and one cannot be transferred to the other."

He explained that the $387,000 bond voted for building purposes here in 1947 was earmarked only for building and improvements, while current operating expenses monies are used to pay salaries, maintain the present system and take care of emergencies which come up.

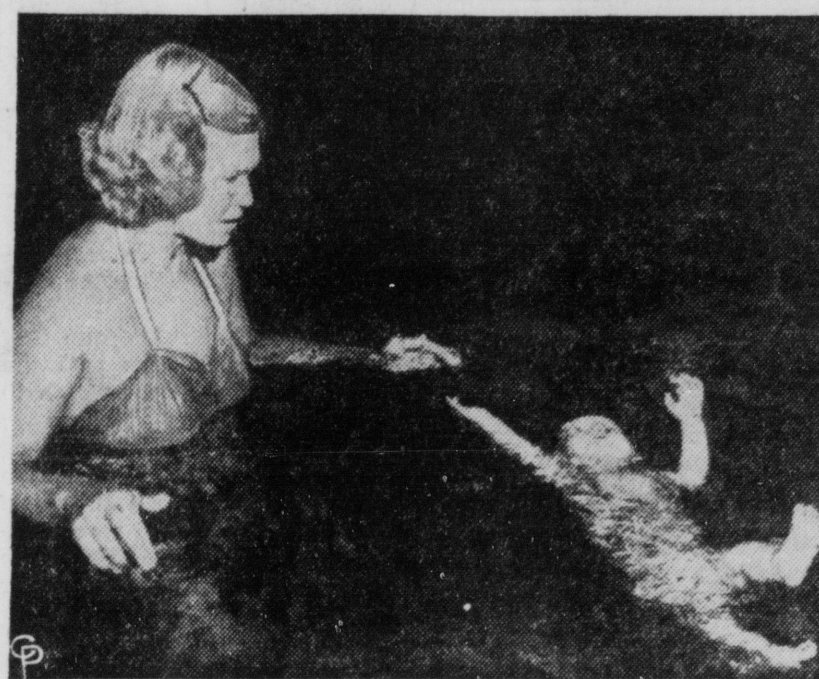

"Current operating expenses can't possibly be transferred to the bond fund, or vice-versa," he stated.

Roughly speaking, the two-mill increase asked by the panel would mean an increase of nearly $20,000 in operating expenses for the school.

The board president said a meeting will be held at 4 p. m. Thursday in the school to vote on the resolution.

'5 PERCENTER' UNDER FIRE

Senator Asks Indictment Against Ex-Bootblack

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis., today demanded a perjury indictment against John Maragon, central figure in the Senate "five percent" probe and former White House pass-holder.

McCarthy said Maragon should be indicted for swearing falsely to the Senate investigating committee that he had never received any money for negotiating with the government on behalf of a private firm.

A witness told the "five percent" probes today that he had paid Maragon, an ex-Kansas City bootblack, $1,000 in behalf of the Allied Molasses Co., of Perth Amboy, N. J., in 1946.

He said the company sought Maragon's assistance in seeking to have lifted an Agriculture Department order suspending its molasses quota.

MILTON R. POLLAND, Milwaukee insurance agent and uncle of the president of the firm, told the committee he gave Maragon $500 cash in October, 1946, and a $500 check in November.

Prior to Polland's statement, Assistant Committee Counsel Francis Flanagan read into the record testimony which Maragon had given the probes in executive session last July 28.

In the testimony read by Flanagan, Maragon said he had never received any money at all for doing any business with the government.

Polland told the committee that he met Maragon in Milwaukee in 1946 at a social gathering. He said it was a party given by one of the Milwaukee breweries. The witness added:

"I was impressed with his importance. He (Maragon) said he lived in Washington and knew everyone in Washington."

Polland said he later telephoned Maragon in Washington and asked him if he could help the Allied Molasses Co.

He said Maragon went to Milwaukee on Oct. 23, discussed the matter with him and agreed to represent the company in seeking restoration of its molasses quota.

Polland described the company's position as "very serious." Under persistent committee questioning, Polland admitted giving Maragon $500 in cash at the Oct. 23 meeting.

The witness said the only record in his files concerned a $500 check paid to Maragon in November.

Crites was nominated by Councilman Robert Adkins. It was the only nomination. Of the five ballots cast by councilmen present, all were affirmative except one—which was blank. Councilman Fred Brown was absent.

Councilman Ray Anderson pointed out after the meeting that Crites had been chosen because he had been a member of the council committee which did the spade work in the city's fight to take over the waterworks. The other two members of the committee were Anderson and Ray Cook.

Anderson said Crites' presence in council will be of inestimable value in the pending court tussle with Attorneys Tom A. Renick and Joe Adkins, Jr. who seek to collect $27,500 in fees from the city.

The attorneys claim the fees are due for their services in establishing the municipal water system. The suit is to be heard next Fall in Ross County common pleas court.

The assistant pointed out that a total of approximately 1,270 Ohio schools were enrolled in the program last year, almost one-fourth of the total number of schools in the state.

The spokesman remarked that it is interesting to note that none of the 1,270 schools now participating in the program have shown any indication of discontinuing the cafeteria program.

A complete survey of the needs of the schools already enrolled in the program will be formed before money via state aid will be allowed new applicants, the spokesman related.

The Circleville board of education has taken the preliminary steps toward receiving the state aid. The board has made application and the application has been acknowledged.

First Shots Fired; 2 Drivers Held

Big Rigs Held Until Mufflers Are Fixed

Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff Wednesday had fired the opening gun in a war to abate noise caused by defective mufflers on trucks with the arrest of two violators.

Meanwhile Circleville Police Chief William McCrady continued to issue warning slips to drivers. The slips set a deadline of Aug. 25 for arrests to begin by city police.

Sheriff Radcliff's office in making the arrests, ignored the city police warning program. He said that he did not feel that law enforcement officers are justified in condoning law violations even through a warning period.

It was pointed out that the state law requiring mufflers on internal combustion engines has been on the statute books for a long time and that an extension of time condoning its breaking is not justified. Sheriff Radcliff said that the noisy trucks are as much in violation of the law today as they will be after the city police deadline of Aug. 25.

McCrady said he would stick by his decision to make no arrests before the deadline.

Sheriff Radcliff said two drivers were arrested Tuesday night and charged with having defective mufflers. They were Walker C. Davis of Martinsville, Va., and Robert Frank Scott of Winston Salem, N. C. The arrests were made by Sheriff's Deputy Carl Radcliff.

The deputy said Scott was arrested at 8:30 p. m. after he passed through Circleville without a muffler in proper working order. He said he followed Scott along U. S. Route 23 to a point near Gold Cliff Park, where the arrest was made.

DEPUTY RADCLIFF said another truck had roared through the city just prior to Scott's appearance, but that it crossed the county line before it could be halted. Scott is employed by the Hennis Trucking Co. of Winston-Salem, N. C.

During the course of Scott's hearing before Justice of the Peace Oscar Root, Sheriff Radcliff said another truck, apparently a diesel engine outfit, roared through Circleville.

The sheriff said neither he nor his deputy could leave the hearing to pursue the offender.

He added that a state highway patrolman, standing near the corner of North Court and (Continued on Page Two)

6 Die, 17 Hurt As Trucks Ram In Mississippi

FULTON, Miss., Aug. 17—Six persons were killed last night, and 17 others injured, two critically, when a lumber truck crashed into an open truck loaded with church-goers near Fulton.

Mississippi state police, who reported the casualties, said the accident occurred when the fully-loaded lumber truck attempted to pass the other vehicle while it was making a left turn.

All the dead and injured were passengers on the open truck which was carrying them to a small community church near Tremont, Miss. All were residents of nearby Hamilton, Ala.

Both vehicles were demolished in the smashup. The impact hurled both of them about 150 feet. The church-goers, who were standing in their truck when the crash occurred, were thrown from the truck-bed by the force of the collision.

Arms Bill Backer Says U.S. Must Build Power

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Proponents of the administration's arms-aid bill warned today that the United States must achieve "preponderant power" in the world to curb Russian designs of conquest.

The warning was issued in a majority report by the House Foreign Affairs committee as the house opened debate on the $1.45 billion program for arming Western Europe and other free nations.

Chairman Kee, (D) W. Va., without referring to the Soviet Union, declared in the report that "two great centers of power remain." He continued: "Until the day that the fundamental conflict between them may be resolved, it is a question whether one or the other shall be placed in the position of preponderant power."

"The decision is one of greatest import not only to the peoples in the two centers of power but also to the peoples in every other segment of the globe."

The majority views were accompanied by a minority report signed by three Republican committee members who asserted that the arms program proposed in the legislation is "inadequate and short-sighted."

Educators Plan Building Fire Escapes Here

Circleville board of education Tuesday agreed to begin a program of building fire escapes for the ground floor rooms of its three elementary schools as soon as possible.

The action stemmed from an order written by D. Jacoby, state building inspector, who recently toured the Circleville system to give it a thorough check-up before school begins next Fall.

Jacoby ordered that nine rooms in High street, Franklin street and Walnut street schools be fitted with fire escapes, and he stressed that the fire escape program definitely is a "must."

The building inspector also delivered a few other minor recommendations for the complete system, but returned to the theme of the escapes, pointing out that at present the lower floor rooms in the buildings have only one means of exit.

Virgil Cress, clerk to the board, said he toured the schools with the state man. He told the board he believed at least seven escapes would have to be constructed to comply with the order.

Cress explained that in some instances two of the rooms were joined, meaning that a single escape could service both.

Cress added that two local men already have approached him for the work but that no prices were mentioned.

Senator Asks Indictment Against Ex-Bootblack

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Sen. McCarthy, (R) Wis., today demanded a perjury indictment against John Maragon, central figure in the Senate "five percent" probe and former White House pass-holder.

McCarthy said Maragon should be indicted for swearing falsely to the Senate investigating committee that he had never received any money for negotiating with the government on behalf of a private firm.

A witness told the "five percent" probes today that he had paid Maragon, an ex-Kansas City bootblack, $1,000 in behalf of the Allied Molasses Co., of Perth Amboy, N. J., in 1946.

He said the company sought Maragon's assistance in seeking to have lifted an Agriculture Department order suspending its molasses quota.

MILTON R. POLLAND, Milwaukee insurance agent and uncle of the president of the firm, told the committee he gave Maragon $500 cash in October, 1946, and a $500 check in November.

Prior to Polland's statement, Assistant Committee Counsel Francis Flanagan read into the record testimony which Maragon had given the probes in executive session last July 28.

In the testimony read by Flanagan, Maragon said he had never received any money at all for doing any business with the government.

Polland told the committee that he met Maragon in Milwaukee in 1946 at a social gathering. He said it was a party given by one of the Milwaukee breweries. The witness added:

Both requests, Acheson said, were made Monday at the Moscow meeting between Stalin and Kirk.

First Shots Fired; 2 Drivers Held

Big Rigs Held Until Mufflers Are Fixed

Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff Wednesday had fired the opening gun in a war to abate noise caused by defective mufflers on trucks with the arrest of two violators.

Meanwhile Circleville Police Chief William McCrady continued to issue warning slips to drivers. The slips set a deadline of Aug. 25 for arrests to begin by city police.

Sheriff Radcliff's office in making the arrests, ignored the city police warning program. He said that he did not feel that law enforcement officers are justified in condoning law violations even through a warning period. It was pointed out that the state law requiring mufflers on internal combustion engines has been on the statute books for a long time and that an extension of time condoning its breaking is not justified. Sheriff Radcliff said that the noisy trucks are as much in violation of the law today as they will be after the city police deadline of Aug. 25.

McCrady said he would stick by his decision to make no arrests before the deadline.

Sheriff Radcliff said two drivers were arrested Tuesday night and charged with having defective mufflers. They were Walker C. Davis of Martinsville, Va., and Robert Frank Scott of Winston Salem, N. C. The arrests were made by Sheriff's Deputy Carl Radcliff.

The deputy said Scott was arrested at 3:30 p. m. after he passed through Circleville without a muffler in proper working order. He said he followed Scott along U. S. Route 23 to a point near Gold Cliff Park, where the arrest was made.

DEPUTY RADCLIFF said another truck had roared through the city just prior to Scott's appearance, but that it crossed the county line before it could be halted. Scott is employed by the Hennis Trucking Co. of Winston-Salem, N. C.

During the course of Scott's hearing before Justice of the Peace Oscar Root, Sheriff Radcliff said another truck, apparently a diesel engine outfit, roared through Circleville.

The sheriff said neither he nor his deputy could leave the hearing to pursue the offender.

He added that a state highway patrolman, standing near the corner of North Court and (Continued on Page Two)

6 Die, 17 Hurt As Trucks Ram In Mississippi

FULTON, Miss., Aug. 17—Six persons were killed last night, and 17 others injured, two critically, when a lumber truck crashed into an open truck loaded with church-goers near Fulton.

Mississippi state police, who reported the casualties, said the accident occurred when the fully-loaded lumber truck attempted to pass the other vehicle while it was making a left turn.

All the dead and injured were passengers on the open truck which was carrying them to a small community church near Tremont, Miss. All were residents of nearby Hamilton, Ala.

Both vehicles were demolished in the smashup. The impact hurled both of them about 150 feet. The church-goers, who were standing in their truck when the crash occurred, were thrown from the truck-bed by the force of the collision.

New Quake Hits Ecuador City

QUITO, Aug. 17—A new tremor struck quake-devastated Central Ecuador yesterday, temporarily halting reconstruction operations.

The Quito observatory said that the tremor hit the town of Ambato, the city of 30,000 which suffered extensive damage in the recent earthquake.

Several houses weakened by the early tremor fell yesterday, but the extent of casualties was unknown.

East Franklin streets made no move to stop the truck, which he said was obviously violating the law requiring mufflers in good working order.

He added that a city police officer made no move to halt the truck either. The city officer he said remained in the police station with his feet propped up on the window sill.

Deputy Radcliff said the second arrest was made at 9:30 p. m. on North Court street near High street. The deputy said he had followed the truck from South Bloomfield.

Davidson, driver of the second truck, is employed by the Roy Stone Transfer Corp.

The drivers were fined $20 and costs each by Magistrate Oscar Root, with $10 of each fine suspended for first offense. They were accused of driving without mufflers in proper working order.

SCOTT SAID he had driven through 36 states in 17 years and that this was his first arrest.

Sheriff Radcliff said the drivers told him that mufflers could not be maintained in good working order in the trucks. He said they claimed the mufflers invariably burned out after one trip.

The drivers told the sheriff that back pressure on the engines results when mufflers are used on trucks. The back pressure causes damage to engine valves, they claimed.

Sheriff Radcliff said his war against noisy trucks would continue. But he pointed out, however, that his deputies could not constantly patrol the highways looking for the violators.

He said the press of other work made this impossible.

Because of this fact, he urged full cooperation of both police and the highway patrol in abating the nuisance. Sheriff Radcliff pointed out that both organizations have much greater manpower and more time to devote to abatement of the noise and speed nuisances than his organization.

Circleville city councilmen indicated Tuesday night that the campaign against noisy trucks met with their approval. One councilman said the city ordinance against the noise makers "should have been enforced long ago."

Hong Kong Braced For Red Advance

HONG KONG, Aug. 17—A left-wing Hong Kong newspaper today reported that Chinese Communists have captured Foochow, major Nationalist port on the Fukien province coast.

Other sources reported that Communist forces have struck as close as 150 to 175 miles north of the provisional capital of Canton, in Kwangtung province.

Hong Kong, British crown colony 75 miles southeast of Canton, continued to strengthen its defenses for what officials term an "inevitable" showdown with the advancing Reds. Informed quarters predicted that the Communists will be at the colony's border no later than the end of September.

Word from Canton said that military authorities have ordered civilians to evacuate the town of Kukong, 120 miles north of Canton. A military curfew last night went into effect in the capital itself.

Even non-Communist quarters in Hong Kong believe that the Reds now have a clear path to Canton.

The newspaper Hwa Shiang Daily News, which carried the report of Foochow's fall, said that 10,000 Nationalist troops under Gen. Tang En-Po were trapped at Manei, at the lower reaches of the Min river.

Cohen Linked To Death Of Bugsy Siegel

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17—A hint that the gangland murder of Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel may be solved came today in the wake of disclosure of information police obtained from hidden microphones at Mickey Cohen's home.

This startling aftermath of the planted microphone expose linking Cohen with crime from one end of the country to another was announced by H. Leo Stanley, chief investigator for the district attorney's office.

Stanley declared the transcripts obtained by police during nearly a year at "listening posts" could well provide the missing link to the blasting of Siegel while he sat in the living room of the Beverly Hills mansion of his girl friend, Virginia Hill, on June 20, 1947.

Siegel was Cohen's predecessor as top-dog in the Los Angeles underworld, which generally controls crime and the rackets throughout Southern California.

Stanley asserted the current revelations about Cohen make it appear likely that Mickey had intimate knowledge of the background of the murder and, perhaps, of who pulled the trigger that killed Siegel.

a short time later, stalked from council chamber.

In his argument for repeal of the two ordinances, Cook said his "philosophy of government" was that it "is set up to be supported by the people. It in turn protects the people." He added:

"But in the eastend the people are supporting the government, but they are not receiving protection. They are being asked to protect themselves."

He said that it had always been his "idea that when a law is violated it is up to the police to make an arrest. For this they are applauded by society. The offenders are given a trial, and, if guilty, are punished."

He complained that in the east-end that conception of law was not working, "and I don't like it."

FOLLOWING withdrawal of the motion by Cook, Councilman Boyd Horn asked why the zoning and planning commission has so far failed to appear before council with a report on how far their work on zoning has progressed.

Horn said he had understood that the commission was supposed to appear before council with their zoning plan and give the legislators the opportunity to "take out or put in" various items.

Councilman Ray Anderson answered that the job of making a zoning plan for the city was a

New Drum Major Home After Stiff Drill Course

Circleville high school's new drum major has completed a week of training in baton twirling, strutting and signals in preparation for the coming year.

He is Ronald Melvin, son of Mrs. Herbert Melvin of East Franklin street, who was selected last month to front this year's marching band.

Melvin has been training in Columbus under the coaching of Dave Kesling, former drum major for the crack Ohio State university marching band.

Kesling taught the local twirler and 10 other drum majors during the week, which featured two appearances before the public. The twirlers appeared in Grove City and in University theatre.

Melvin was nursing a pair of stiff legs following the course. He said the stiff legs were the result of learning the "Ohio State thrust" strut.

Truman Eberly, music instructor for Circleville high school, said he will issue his first call to practice for the senior band at 7 p. m. next Wednesday in the school.

He said the group will practice inside for a while and later will take to the field to learn new marching patterns for this year's football season.

Cress said the new salaries will go into effect as soon as the men sign new contracts. The new contracts are expected to bind the men into working during the Summer months for their pay, which continues on a 12-month basis.

The janitorial force in the Circleville system consists of Roy Stout, D. L. Tracy, William Friece, Carl Porter, Ralph Ward and George Radcliff. Glad Willis is employed as parttime janitor during the nine months of school.

He said an alternate plan, proposed after council members objected that the Court street sewer is already overloaded, would connect the proposed sewer with an existing sewer on Western avenue.

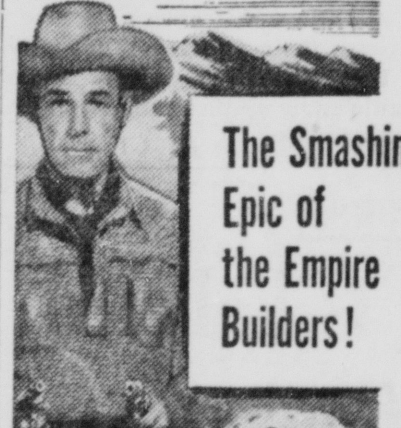

This would require installation of a new pump station at Hargus creek.

Neuding said he did not know whether the Western avenue sewer was 18 inches or 12 inches in diameter. Council decided that if the sewer is 18 inches in diameter no problem exists, but if it is only 12 inches, then the situation would be no different

Who says what gasoline should cost?

IRVIN S. REID

State Automobile Mutual Insurance Co.
Broad at Washington
Columbus, Ohio

You do, of course.

You always have—and let's hope you always will.

You and the other two million owners of motor vehicles in Ohio decide what price you will pay, who among the more than 500 Ohio oil companies you will buy from and in what quantities.

Gasoline-selling is almost as much a "public auction" as if all the car owners of the state met at one place and bid against each other.

Naturally, we'd like to get the best price for gasoline we can. And we don't blame you for wanting to pay as little as you can. But it stands to reason that the public, not the oil companies, decides what the price shall be—otherwise, how could it be so low?

There are more than 19,000 service stations and more than 500 individual oil companies of all sizes doing business in

Ohio, a great many of them selling well-known brands of petroleum products.

Some people make the mistake of thinking gasoline prices are arrived at by rubbing a lamp and getting the answer. Others think they are fixed by the companies doing business. Actually, they are a result of companies bidding for your business and you making the choice.

It's a free market like this—a free choice like this—that lets American business offer the best values in the world. "Freedom"—our kind of freedom—isn't just an ideal.... it is a practical, working thing that makes this the finest place in the world to live. Next time we look at the price of gasoline, let's not just be glad it costs so little.... let's be glad in knowing we have a hand in saying what the price shall be.

Hong Kong Braced For Red Advance

HONG KONG, Aug. 17.—A left-wing Hong Kong newspaper today reported that Chinese Communists have captured Foochow, major Nationalist port on the Fukien province coast.

Other sources reported that Communist forces have struck as close as 150 to 175 miles north of the provisional capital of Canton, in Kwangtung province.

Hong Kong, British crown colony 75 miles southeast of Canton, continued to strengthen its defenses for what officials term an "inevitable" showdown with the advancing Reds. Informed quarters predicted that the Communists will be at the colony's border no later than the end of September.

Word from Canton said that military authorities have ordered civilians to evacuate the town of Kukong, 120 miles north of Canton. A military curfew last night went into effect in the capital itself.

Even non-Communist quarters in Hong Kong believe that the Reds now have a clear path to Canton.

The newspaper Hwa Shiang Daily News, which carried the report of Foochow's fall, said that 10,000 Nationalist troops under Gen. Tang En-Po were trapped at Manei, at the lower reaches of the Min river.

Cohen Linked To Death Of Buggy Siegel

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—A hint that the gangland murder of Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel may be solved came today in the wake of disclosure of information police obtained from hidden microphones at Mickey Cohen's home.

This startling aftermath of the planted microphone expose linking Cohen with crime from one end of the country to another was announced by H. Leo Stanley, chief investigator for the district attorney's office.

Stanley declared the transcripts obtained by police during nearly a year at "listening posts" could well provide the missing link to the blasting of Siegel while he sat in the living room of the Beverly Hills mansion of his girl friend, Virginia Hill, on June 20, 1947.

Siegel was Cohen's predecessor as top dog in the Los Angeles underworld, which generally controls crime and the rackets throughout Southern California.

Stanley asserted the current revelations about Cohen make it appear likely that Mickey had intimate knowledge of the background of the murder and, perhaps, of who pulled the trigger that killed Siegel.

Junkyard Law Is Labeled Worthless By Councilman

In his argument for repeal of the two ordinances, Cook said his "philosophy of government" was that it "is set up to be supported by the people. It in turn protects the people." He added:

"But in the eastend the people are supporting the government, but they are not receiving protection. They are being asked to protect themselves."

He said that it had always been his "idea that when a law is violated it is up to the police to make an arrest. For this they are applauded by society. The offenders are given a trial, and, if guilty, are punished."

He complained that in the eastend that conception of law was not working, "and I don't like it."

FOLLOWING withdrawal of the motion by Cook, Councilman Boyd Horn asked why the zoning and planning commission has so far failed to appear before council with a report on how far their work on zoning has progressed.

Horn said he had understood that the commission was supposed to appear before council with their zoning plan and give the legislators the opportunity to "take out or put in" various items.

Councilman Ray Anderson answered that the job of making a zoning plan for the city was a long one, and a big one.

He pointed out that Portsmouth had paid $5,700 to professionals for a zoning plan, "while here in Circleville we have a group doing it for nothing. Be patient."

New Drum Major Home After Stiff Drill Course

Circleville high school's new drum major has completed a week of training in baton twirling, strutting and signals in preparation for the coming year.

He is Ronald Melvin, son of Mrs. Herbert Melvin of East Franklin street, who was selected last month to front this year's marching band.

Melvin has been training in Columbus under the coaching of Dave Kesling, former drum major for the crack Ohio State university marching band.

Kesling taught the local twirler and 10 other drum majors during the week, which featured two appearances before the public. The twirlers appeared in Grove City and in University theatre.

Melvin was nursing a pair of stiff legs following the course. He said the stiff legs were the result of learning the "Ohio State thrust" strut.

Truman Eberly, music instructor for Circleville high school, said he will issue his first call to practice for the senior band at 7 p. m. next Wednesday in the school.

He said the group will practice inside for a while and later will take to the field to learn new marching patterns for this year's football season.

School Janitors Given Pay Boost By Educators

Circleville board of education Tuesday OK'd a salary boost totalling $970 for the system's janitors.

The janitors' pay envelopes were fattened with an increase of approximately 11 percent in the move, according to Virgil Cress, board clerk.

Cress said the new salaries will go into effect as soon as the men sign new contracts. The new contracts are expected to bind the men into working during the Summer months for their pay, which continues on a 12-month basis.

The janitorial force in the Circleville system consists of Roy Stout, D. L. Tracy, William Fricke, Carl Porter, Ralph Ward and George Radcliff. Glad Willis is employed as parttime janitor during the nine months of school.

Meanwhile, the board has employed Mrs. Evelyn Grace of near Commercial Point to substitute as first grade teacher until the first of the year. McDowell said Mrs. Kathryn Gray, regular first grade teacher, has submitted to surgery and will be unable to teach for several months.

Who says what gasoline should cost?

You do, of course.

You always have—and let's hope you always will.

You and the other two million owners of motor vehicles in Ohio decide what price you will pay, who among the more than 500 Ohio oil companies you will buy from and in what quantities.

Gasoline-selling is almost as much a "public auction" as if all the car owners of the state met at one place and bid against each other.

Naturally, we'd like to get the best price for gasoline we can. And we don't blame you for wanting to pay as little as you can. But it stands to reason that the public, not the oil companies, decides what the price shall be—otherwise, how could it be so low?

There are more than 19,000 service stations and more than 500 individual oil companies of all sizes doing business in

Ohio, a great many of them selling well-known brands of petroleum products.

Some people make the mistake of thinking gasoline prices are arrived at by rubbing a lamp and getting the answer. Others think they are fixed by the companies doing business. Actually, they are a result of companies bidding for your business and you making the choice.

It's a free market like this—a free choice like this—that lets American business offer the best values in the world. "Freedom"—our kind of freedom—isn't just an ideal.... it is a practical, working thing that makes this the finest place in the world to live. Next time we look at the price of gasoline, let's not just be glad it costs so little.... let's be glad in knowing we have a hand in saying what the price shall be.

Stork Far Ahead Of Death Here

County's Vital Statistics Given

Births doubled the number of deaths in Pickaway County during July.

According to reports compiled in both city and county health offices, a total of 54 youngsters were born last month while only 27 deaths were recorded.

The reports add that the number of boys exactly equalled the number of girls born during the period, meaning that 27 of each sex were born during July.

Circleville topped the surrounding county in births during the period with a total of 45, consisting of 22 girls and 23 boys. The county recorded only nine births, five girls and four boys.

Only eight deaths were recorded in the city during the period while a total of 19, including two from Orient institution, were tallied in the county.

OF THE TOTAL 27 deaths, 16 were female and only 11 male. The 71-80-year-old age bracket contained the largest number of deaths during July with 11. Second in number was the 81-90-year-old group with four.

Age range of deaths during the period, excluding the two age groups mentioned is: 1-10-years, one; 11-20-years, two; 21-30-years, two; 31-40-years, two; 41-50-years, one; 51-60-years, one; and 61-70-years, three.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Actors Equity Association
45 West 47th Street
New York, N. Y.
Gentlemen:

During the last six months, reputable producers have announced approximately 50 new productions for Fall and yet here it is the middle of August and you can count those actually in rehearsal on the fingers of one glove.

Broadway, of course, knows what the trouble is—money, or rather the lack of it. It knows that because of one thing or another, yesterday's angels have folded their wings, and that a producer who auditions a show for a group of potential backers these nights is lucky if he raises enough to pay for the canapes and cocktails.

Obviously, what the legitimate theatre needs most right now is a new set of angels who are willing to gamble on the productions that are all set to go.

And if you're inclined to listen, I can tell you here you'll find this new set of angels—gents with fresh, green folding money, who are not only willing but actually eager to take their chances.

And you won't have to look far. These gentlemen have their offices on Broadway, and if you don't know them by name you undoubtedly know them by sight. Yes, I'm talking about the ticket brokers.

To hear them tell it, the reason they're anxious to bankroll certain productions is because they're fed up with taking the rap for certain theiving producers, theatre owners, company managers and box office treasurers.

THEY'RE UNHAPPY about the bad notices they've been getting lately and, for a change, would like to buy blocks of tickets at box office prices in advance of production, and are prepared to "eat" those tickets when they guess wrong.

To make this possible, Equity of course would have to remove its ban on the "buy." And, begging your pardon, it's about time. Though the experiment was worthy in motive, what resulted from it, like Prohibition, is a matter of record and regret. As everybody knows, bootleg tickets to some of the big hits this season have sold for as much as $50 a seat—several times as much as the public paid for a "Follie" or a "Show

Boat" during the years of the "buy."

A lot of us, of course, know the scandalous story behind the ticket scandal—certainly I do.

But to put the ill-making details on paper—to explain the institution of "ice" and how it's melted down—well, that would involve blowing the whistle on a lot of buys I've chummed and bummed around with for years and, for reasons I won't bore you with, I'm not disposed to play "copper."

As the owner of a theatre, I get to see most of the musical scripts that are turned out these days, and in the last few months I've read at least five which shape up as potential boxoffice hits. But, so far, not one of them has ordered a dress or a stick of scenery because the producer hasn't been able to dig up more than half of the necessary money.

IT'S MY BELIEF that the ticket speculators, if given the chance to speculate on pre-opening ticket buys, would complete the financing of these shows, and five musical productions, gentlemen, mean the employment of close to 1,000 actors, dancers, musicians, stagehands and other help around the theatre. And remember, I'm only talking about musicals. I understand that at least a dozen dramatic shows are ready to go into rehearsal as soon as dough is available for the necessary bonds and production expenses.

Who would suffer? Nobody I know of, except possibly a few chiselers who are stashing away dark-of-the-moon money in their vaults—little, if any, of which ever shows up on their income tax returns.

Respectfully,
Billy Rose

Sponsored by the J. C. Penney Co., here, the free movie ducats measure about seven by eleven inches in size. They will entitle the juvenile bearer to a seat in the Cliftona theatre.

There the kids will see full-length "Red Ryder" movie and a half-dozen cartoons. Art Marr, local Penney store manager, said the youngsters would meet at the store at 10 a. m. and march, via Scioto street, to the theatre—all behind a brass band made up of more kids.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Actors Equity Association 45 West 47th Street New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

During the last six months, reputable producers have announced approximately 50 new productions for Fall and yet here it is the middle of August and you can count those actually in rehearsal on the fingers of one glove.

Broadway, of course, knows what the trouble is—money, or rather the lack of it. It knows that because of one thing or another, yesterday's angels have folded their wings, and that a producer who auditions a show for a group of potential backers these nights is lucky if he raises enough to pay for the canapes and cocktails.

Obviously, what the legitimate theatre needs most right now is a new set of angels who are willing to gamble on the productions that are all set to go.

And if you're inclined to listen, I can tell you here you'll find this new set of angels—gents with fresh, green folding money, who are not only willing but actually eager to take their chances.

And you won't have to look

Boat" during the years of the "buy."

A lot of us, of course, know the scandalous story behind the ticket scandal—certainly I do.

But to put the ill-making details on paper—to explain the institution of "ice" and how it's melted down—well, that would involve blowing the whistle on a lot of guys I've chummed and bummed around with for years and, for reasons I won't bore you with, I'm not disposed to play "copper."

As the owner of a theatre, I get to see most of the musical scripts that are turned out these days, and in the last few months I've read at least five which shape up as potential boxoffice hits. But, so far, not one of them has ordered a dress or a stick of scenery because the producer hasn't been able to dig up more than half of the necessary money.

IT'S MY BELIEF that the ticket speculators, if given the chance to speculate on pre-opening ticket buys, would complete the financing of these shows, and five musical productions, gentlemen, mean the employment of close to 1,000 actors, dancers, musicians, stagehands and other help around the theatre. And remember, I'm only talking about musicals. I understand that at least a dozen dramatic shows are ready to go into rehearsal as soon as dough is available for the necessary bonds and production expenses.

Who would suffer? Nobody I know of, except possibly a few

chiselers who are stashing away dark-of-the-moon money in their vaults—little, if any, of which ever shows up on their income tax returns.

Respectfully,
Billy Rose

COLUMBIANA PLAN

HOW healthy is Pickaway County? The large cities have boards whose job is to answer this question. Few counties of lesser population know. If there is no epidemic raging at the moment, the citizens are apt to figure that things are getting on well enough.

One community was not satisfied with this airy ignorance. Columbiana County in Eastern Ohio decided to find out about itself. This county, partly industrial (it is in a pottery area), partly farming, took a health survey. It got 317 volunteers to go out in the intervals of work, and quiz their neighbors. Nearly 17,000 persons were interviewed.

Some interesting discoveries were made. There was no system for protecting small children against diphtheria, whooping cough and lockjaw. So now pre-school clinics have been established, and arrangements made for immunization treatments.

Only 17 percent of young children had been vaccinated. Now vaccination is provided for all babies before they are a year old.

Tuberculosis rates were above the national average. Conditions favoring the spread of typhoid were numerous. Comparatively few had checked up on their eyes and teeth.

The returns to the county's citizens amount to many times the $800 which the investigation cost, and which was largely paid by the County Public Health League. The questioners took no pay, and contributed their cars and gasoline.

The Columbiana Plan is well worth consideration here.

OCCUPATION PERIOD

THE BELGIANS, an extremely practical, down-to-earth people, are strongly in favor of a long occupation period for Germany. Fifty years is reported as the shortest time which the thrice-invaded Belgians believe would be advisable.

It is easier for Americans to maintain an objective viewpoint on the question of the occupation than for the French and Belgians. At the same time, it should be realized that this attitude of distrust and suspicion provides the atmosphere in which wars come into being. A Germany which has been able to acquire and maintain a self-sustaining economy, and which can enter into the peaceful give-and-take of relations with the rest of Europe, is perhaps less likely to think of war than an occupied Germany.

The occupation forces should remain long enough to assure that Germany is set on a peaceful path. How long is that?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I recently wrote some columns on the Barden bill and received a huge mail beyond anything I had ever received before. The mail contained very few screwball letters; rather they represented an intelligent approach to problems of education, religion and government from many different standpoints. They indicated a profound public concern over the future of this country.

However, two words seem to appear in many of the letters which I believe to be wholly false in relation to this subject and which violate the concept of the American state altogether. In his 75th birthday address at Palo Alto, Herbert Hoover said:

"A device of these advocates of gigantic spending is the manipulation of words, phrases and slogans to convey new meanings, different from those we have long understood. These malign distortions drug thinking. They drown it in emotion."

This is so true and the use of the words majority and minority is characteristic of the sloppy thinking introduced into our lives during the last 20 years. Before that these words were only employed in relation to actual votes taken, a majority representing the expression of more than half of those voting.

No American regarded himself as part of a majority in any other way. An American was an individual who did as he chose, joining many groups or none by his own decisions and at his own risk. Even when the accidents of birth and environment placed one in a particular group, he did not stress that fact unless he happened to be a snob and spoke of his ancestors as though that made a real distinction.

For political reasons, the Roosevelt politicians found it advantageous to stress differences and to bring people together in self-serving groups. Out of the amalgam of such groups, often antagonistic to each other but united by the expectancy of special privileges, the New Dealers built their winning majorities. It was a splendid political gambit.

For instance, according to my correspondence, if a man is a Protestant, he belongs to the majority. But if the same man is a Republican, he belongs to the minority. Also, if he is a capitalist, he is in the minority, but if he is a low-earner, he is in the majority. If he belongs to a labor union, he is among the minority of workers, but if he likes baseball, he is among the majority of Americans.

How does one define a person in a free country as belonging to "the" majority? For instance, if a man is a Negro, he is in a minority group, but if he lives in New York and is a Democrat, then he belongs to the majority and has a more telling political power than the chairman of the Republican county committee. If he is a Communist and lives in Marcantonio's district, he belongs to the majority and is more positively represented in Congress than I am. No member of Congress has ever been elected by my vote. I belong to the minority party in my district, whose representative is none other than Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., a Democrat.

No American wears a tag stipulating that he is a capitalist or a proletarian, that he is a first-class or a second-class citizen. It is time we dropped the "majority"—"minority" nonsense.

SYNOPSIS
Finding herself suddenly broke, young, beautiful, socially prominent Terry Austin flies from Guatemala to New York, bent on making a brilliant marriage. No one had been swept away in a Central American political fiasco, no one except her old school girl friend, Helen Lannik, now happily married and living in New York. Helen visits by secretly, staunchly. Things begin to happen for Terry when she and Helen visit the Johnsons in Connecticut. Here they meet handsome Chris Russell of the wealthy Russell Hawaiian sugar family. Terry sets her cap for him.

CHAPTER NINE
DRIVING back to town, "Looks as if you've made quite a conquest, Terry," said Frank, at the wheel.

Helen, sitting between her husband and her friend, sensed the quick tenseness in Terry's body. But Terry answered lightly, "I dare say he was only being courteous, and perhaps he's so used to making conquests himself..."

"Not more accustomed than you," said Frank cheerfully. "You're an extremely good-looking couple, by the way. And how suitable an alliance it would be—sugar from Hawaii to Central America, practically a monopoly."

Helen warned, "Don't tease her, Frank."

"Why not?" he asked, astonished. He turned and looked across his little wife at Terry, and added, "The girl's actually blushing."

"It's the wind," Terry defended herself.

"Russell's a personable chap," Frank commented, "which is fairly unusual, when it comes gilt-edged. I like him, and he's doing a good job with young Dick. Most men of great means, particularly those who haven't earned their way, have, no matter how amiable, the taint of arrogance. It's discernible, no matter how hard they try; it has something of royalty about it. You can't help being conscious of this. When rich men run around embracing so to speak, the taxi driver, the bartender, the average Tom, Dick and Harry, I am always suspicious. Look at me, how democratic I am! I'm written all over me. Nor have I much patience with this pity-me-because-I'm-richer-than-mud attitude. I suppose they can't help it. Nevertheless, Mr. Average man, though generally dazzled and as snobbish as the next fellow, grows a little suspicious of the back slapping..."

"...All saving your pretty presence," he added, smiling. Helen was amazed. "Longest speech I've heard him make since that night in London, when he came home tight, having met up with several old comrades in arms," she said.

Frank grinned. "Maybe it's envy. Who knows his own motives? But I generally take a dim view of the idle rich. Except Terry. And she too is rather unique, as the taint is not an exclusively masculine one."

"Where," asked Terry blandly,

culine trait."
"Much en el suelo, poco en el cielo," said Terry solemnly. "Come again?" suggested Helen. "My knowledge of Spanish is confined to the few phrases you once taught me, a couple of which, I regret to say, were not wholly conventional."

"This is," Terry assured her. "It's one of those quote unquote things. Old Maria was fond of saying it when I was especially trying. It means, 'Much on earth, little in heaven.' A Spanish version of the rich man, the camel and the needle's eye, I suppose."

"You," said Frank generously, "are going to make a very handsome angel in about ninety years."

He added, "But to return to our discussion..."

"Monologue," Helen corrected. "You like Russell?" asked Frank.

That he addressed Terry there was no doubt. She answered, "I like him a great deal." She was obviously disturbed. The slight accent was more pronounced than usual, Helen thought.

"Good," said Frank genially. "And if I'm any judge, it is, as Miss Duffy is wont to say, mutual, I'm sure. Which will be wonderful for Helen and me. Look at the choice of vacation spots we'd have, lolling in the sun by sea or on mountaintop."

"One if I land, two if by sea, or is it the other way round?" his wife inquired.

"Silence, woman," said Frank dramatically, "a glass of coconut milk, cold and laced with rum, a couple of beautiful girls to fan me—Hawaiian, Indian, it wouldn't matter—guitars playing, my choice of samba or hula..."

Truly, Terry, great vistas open up before me."

"Surely," inquired Helen, "you haven't been drinking at this horrid hour?"

It was very early in the morning, the Johnsons having persuaded their guests to remain until Monday. The air was cold and fresh and the Parkway almost deserted.

Frank said, "I did my moderate tipping last night. I was interested to note that Russell doesn't appear to need the genie in the bottle, or was that because of Dick?"

He added, "I'll make an inquiry or two—you needn't dig your nasty little elbow into my side, Helen, we stand in loco parentis to Terry here, if my Latin is as correct as Terry's Spanish."

"Loco is right, at any rate," Helen murmured.

"Anyway, I feel somewhat responsible for her."

"How too fearfully British," said his wife, "man of the house, master of all the females in it."

"Not a bad custom," Frank suggested.

"Where," asked Terry blandly,

"Will you inquire?"
"Here and there. I know some people," he said obscurely. "Christopher Russell is hardly a fortune hunter," said Helen, "if that's what you mean."

"That aspect hadn't occurred to me," said Frank, "in the circumstances. What I'm after is a character reference. How many discarded wives, if any, what vices, what virtues?"

Terry spoke with calculated laziness. She said, "Darling Frank, for an Englishman you are singularly quick on the trigger."

"I'm an American now," said Frank, "I love to jump to conclusions."

Helen yawned. "You'll break a leg someday," she said.

Frank and Terry went to dine with James Southard and his plain, delightful wife and Terry spent the evening admiring the house, enjoying the dinner, exclaiming over the studio and the portraits, and parrying Southard's insistence that she sit for him.

"How soon?" he demanded. She slid out deftly enough. She wasn't at all sure of her plans; she was booked for a number of visits; she would just be in and out of New York for a considerable time.

Helen applauded with her eyes. On Friday, at breakfast, Frank, who had come home late the night before, announced that his various spies and agents had made a complete dossier on Christopher Russell.

Terry said, "Interesting but unnecessary, as I haven't heard from him. For all I know he may be back in Honolulu by now."

"Of course," said Frank, ignoring that, "his war record is well known; when he first came to town it was in all the columns. That, and the heavy sugar. He beamed at the pun. 'All I've learned bears it out, and is, I hasten to add, favorable. No wives, at any time whatsoever; only child, parents deceased. Great lashings of relatives. Houses in Honolulu, also offices, also places on the other islands plus an island all their own, invitations to visit which being scarcer than to Moscow.'"

"All this," said Helen, "is common knowledge."

"Newspaper knowledge. But I talked to chaps who have investments in Island properties," said Frank.

He was on the verge of departure for the brokerage office in which he labored when the telephone rang and Margaret reported it was for Miss Austin, "A Mr. Russell."

"How fortuitous," said Frank, grinning. He kissed his wife, smote Terry on her shoulder, and went out whistling.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—The fact that we have a night-club brawl involving persons of some prominence on the average of once every two weeks, here in Manhattan, is not of itself especially interesting. However, sometimes the reasons for the powderpuff punchings are fascinating in an eerie way.

We had one a few weeks ago, just about when the East's tremendous dry spell was getting under way, that commanded the abrupt attention of those among us whose little minds are intrigued by such things.

This one took place on the sidewalk outside Billy Reed's Little Club in East 55th street, and the person of prominence involved was Alvin Rey, the orchestra leader and guitar player. You must assume for our purposes that a guitar player can be a person of prominence.

Well—it seems that Rey and a professional dancer companion got into an argument with an actor named Herbert Evers and his actress companion. Before we proceed, one might note with care that all those involved were people in show business. Summer is a barren time for show people, looking at it from a publicity angle.

This is what started this particular brawl: Rey's pretty drinking mate ordered a Pimm's No. 1 Cup. This is an exotic drink of which we will speak more fully later. Like an old-fashioned, it is full of what the barkeeps call garbage, and the customary garbage for a Pimm's No. 1 is a slice of cucumber.

Rey's companion said, in effect, don't put any of that cucumber in it but garnish it instead with a sprig of mint. Thank heavens she saved further confusion by not specifying whether the mint should be whole or crushed, thereby introducing a mint julep argument into the whole thing and bringing on chaos.

Evers' lovely companion, according to report, leaned over and addressed Rey's companion. "Pardon me," she said sweetly, "but I'm sure you'll prefer it with cucumber."

Rey's demure companion eyed her coldly. "Pardon me," she replied, "but Lord Pimm himself showed me how to make a Pimm's Cup with a mint sprig." Whereupon the first lovely companion pushed a slice of cucumber into the face of the second sweet thing. This left Rey and Evers with no alternative. They had to go out on the sidewalk and swing fists.

EVENTUALLY ALL CONCERNED LANDED IN COURT, around dawn, and, following ritual, they settled their differences in the magistrate's chambers. The only persons troubled by the brawl seemed to be the police, who, several days later, announced darkly that if there were any more fights in high class saloons for any reason whatever, they were going to see to it that a few penalties were handed out.

Pimm's No. 1, the concoction that started all this, started becoming the drink in New York last summer. In lower circles, it is called a Singapore gin sling and is one of those deliciously sneaky bombshells that taste absolutely non-alcoholic and later explode internally and start you walking on your hands.

It had its beginnings more than a hundred years ago in Pimm's restaurant, situated a stone's throw from the Bank of England on the site of what was, back in 1499, the Hoghead tavern.

Wherever the gallant English army officer was, even after—Omdurman, the Sudan, Khartoum (surely you remember C. Aubrey Smith fighting it out on that thin red line)—Pimm's No. 1 went with him.

Its base is of gin and bitters, but its bottlers put in some secret ingredient known only to six of their top men, and all employees must agree in writing before joining the firm that should the full recipe ever become known to them, they never will divulge it, even if Humphrey Bogart beats them into insensibility and Dennis O'Keefe never does come with the squad car.

WELL—ALL THIS WOULD HAVE ADDED UP to just another saloon slugfest, except that a couple of weeks later Doris Lilly called me and announced that she'd just become associated with Bob Taplinger's publicity firm.

Miss Lilly, some of you may remember, is our favorite New Yorker, the beautiful and Junoesque blonde whose date book has contained the best of American money and manhood and who is engaged in writing a volume called How to Marry a Millionaire.

Doris has an uncanny knack for getting publicity. Bob Taplinger is doing publicity for Pimm's No. 1 Cup. One of Doris' favorite saloons is Billy Reed's Little Club; she takes all her favorite newspapermen there to gossip and look on the wine when it is red, and that, of course, means me.

"Doris," I said, as gently as I could, "—about this Alvin Rey brawl over Pimm's No. 1, in Billy Reed's. Did you—" But Doris interrupted, breathlessly. "Oh, honey!" she said over the phone, "wasn't that just a shame? And wasn't it lucky that no one was hurt seriously and that everything turned out for the best, and—" I sighed. "Doris," and concluded, defeated but gallant to the end, "let's have lunch sometime next week!"

The Department of Agriculture says that U. S. A. A. on the carton or certificate means the butter has been found to have a "fine, highly pleasing flavor".

When the butter has a "pleasing and desirable" flavor it is marked and graded as U. S.—A.

Grades B and C are determined on the same basis each having a slightly greater variation in flavor texture and color. If defects are found the grade is reduced accordingly.

Grade (CG) is classified as Cooking Grade because it is best suited to that use.

Butter Grading has been a Government Service since 1919. In 1948 about 244 million pounds of butter were Government Graded.

COLUMBIANA PLAN

HOW healthy is Pickaway County? The large cities have boards whose job is to answer this question. Few counties of lesser population know. If there is no epidemic raging at the moment, the citizens are apt to figure that things are getting on well enough.

One community was not satisfied with this airy ignorance. Columbiana County in Eastern Ohio decided to find out about itself. This county, partly industrial (it is in a pottery area), partly farming, took a health survey. It got 317 volunteers to go out in the intervals of work, and quiz their neighbors. Nearly 17,000 persons were interviewed.

Some interesting discoveries were made. There was no system for protecting small children against diphtheria, whooping cough and lockjaw. So now pre-school clinics have been established, and arrangements made for immunization treatments.

Only 17 percent of young children had been vaccinated. Now vaccination is provided for all babies before they are a year old.

Tuberculosis rates were above the national average. Conditions favoring the spread of typhoid were numerous. Comparatively few had checked up on their eyes and teeth.

The returns to the county's citizens amount to many times the $800 which the investigation cost, and which was largely paid by the County Public Health League. The questioners took no pay, and contributed their cars and gasoline.

The Columbiana Plan is well worth consideration here.

OCCUPATION PERIOD

THE BELGIANS, an extremely practical, down-to-earth people, are strongly in favor of a long occupation period for Germany. Fifty years is reported as the shortest time which the thrice-invaded Belgians believe would be advisable.

It is easier for Americans to maintain an objective viewpoint on the question of the occupation than for the French and Belgians. At the same time, it should be realized that this attitude of distrust and suspicion provides the atmosphere in which wars come into being. A Germany which has been able to acquire and maintain a self-sustaining economy, and which can enter into the peaceful give-and-take of relations with the rest of Europe, is perhaps less likely to think of war than an occupied Germany.

The occupation forces should remain long enough to assure that Germany is set on a peaceful path. How long is that?

These Days

I recently wrote some columns on the Barden bill and received a huge mail beyond anything I had ever received before. The mail contained very few screwball letters; rather they represented an intelligent approach to problems of education, religion and government from many different standpoints. They indicated a profound public concern over the future of this country.

However, two words seem to appear in many of the letters which I believe to be wholly false in relation to this subject and which violate the concept of the American state altogether. In his 75th birthday address at Palo Alto, Herbert Hoover said:

"A device of these advocates of gigantic spending is the manipulation of words, phrases and slogans to convey new meanings, different from those we have long understood. These malign distortions drug thinking. They drown it in emotion."

This is so true and the use of the words majority and minority is characteristic of the sloppy thinking introduced into our lives during the last 20 years. Before that these words were only employed in relation to actual votes taken, a majority representing the expression of more than half of those voting.

No American regarded himself as part of a majority in any other way. An American was an individual who did as he chose, joining many groups or none by his own decisions and at his own risk. Even when the accidents of birth and environment placed one in a particular group, he did not stress that fact unless he happened to be a snob and spoke of his ancestors as though that made a real distinction.

For political reasons, the Roosevelt politicians found it advantageous to stress differences and to bring people together in self-serving groups. Out of the amalgam of such groups, often antagonistic to each other but united by the expectancy of special privileges, the New Dealers built their winning majorities. It was a splendid political gambit.

For instance, according to my correspondence, if a man is a Protestant, he belongs to the majority. But if the same man is a Republican, he belongs to the minority. Also, if he is a capitalist, he is in the minority, but if he is a low-earner, he is in the majority. If he belongs to a labor union, he is among the minority of workers, but if he likes baseball, he is among the majority of Americans.

How does one define a person in a free country as belonging to "the" majority? For instance, if a man is a Negro, he is in a minority group, but if he lives in New York and is a Democrat, then he belongs to the majority and has a more telling political power than the chairman of the Republican county committee. If he is a Communist and lives in Marcantonio's district, he belongs to the majority and is more positively represented in Congress than I am. No member of Congress has ever been elected by my vote. I belong to the minority party in my district, whose representative is none other than Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., a Democrat.

No American wears a tag stipulating that he is a capitalist or a proletarian, that he is a first-class or a second-class citizen. It is time we dropped the "majority"—"minority" nonsense.

SYNOPSIS

Finding herself suddenly broke, young, beautiful, socially prominent Terry Austin flew from Guatemala to New York bent on making a brilliant marriage. No one knows that Terry's vast family fortune had been swept away in a Central American political fiasco, no one except her old school girl friend, Helen Lannis, now happily married and living in New York. Helen stands by secretly, staunchly. Things begin to happen for Terry when she and Helen visit the Johnstons in Connecticut. Here they meet handsome Chris Russell of the wealthy Russell-Hawkins sugar family. Terry sets her cap for him.

CHAPTER NINE

DRIVING back to town, "Looks as if you've made quite a conquest, Terry," said Frank, at the wheel.

Helen, sitting between her husband and her friend, sensed the quick tenseness in Terry's body. But Terry answered lightly, "I dare say he was only being courteous, and perhaps he's so used to making conquests himself..."

"Not more accustomed than you," said Frank cheerfully. "You're an extremely good-looking couple, by the way. And how suitable an alliance it would be—sugar from Hawaii to Central America, practically a monopoly."

Helen warned, "Don't tease her, Frank."

"Why not?" he asked, astonished. He turned and looked across the little wife at Terry, and added, "The girl's actually blushing."

"It's the wind," Terry defended herself. "Russell's a personable chap," Frank commented, "which is fairly unusual, when it comes gilt-edged. I like him, and he's doing a good job with young Dick. Most men of great means, particularly those who haven't earned their way, have, no matter how amiable, the taint of arrogance. It's discernible, no matter how hard they try; it has something of royalty about it. You can't help being conscious of this. When rich men run around embracing so to speak, the taxi driver, the bartender, the average Tom, Dick and Harry, I am always suspicious. Look at me, how democratic I am! It's written all over them. Nor have I much patience with this pity-me-because-I'm-richer-than-mud attitude. I suppose they can't help it. Nevertheless, Mr. Average man, though generally dazed and as smug as the next fellow, grows a little suspicious of the back slapping. ... All saving your pretty presence," he added, smiling.

Helen was amazed. "Longest speech I've heard him make since that night in London when he came home tight, having met up with several old comrades in arms," she said. Frank grinned. "Maybe it's envy. Who knows his own motives? But I generally take a dim view of the idle rich. Except Terry. And she too is rather unique, as the taint is not an exclusively masculine trait."

"Much en el suelo, poco en el cielo," said Terry solemnly. "Come again?" suggested Helen. "My knowledge of Spanish is confined to the few phrases you once taught me, a couple of which, I regret to say, were not wholly conventional."

"This is," Terry assured her. "It's one of those quote unquote things. Old Maria was fond of saying it when I was, especially trying. It means, 'Much on earth, little in heaven.' A Spanish version of the rich man, the camel and the needle's eye, I suppose."

"You," said Frank generously, "are going to make a very handsome angel in about ninety years." He added, "But to return to our discussion..."

"Monologue," Helen corrected. "You like Russell?" asked Frank. That he addressed Terry there was no doubt. She answered, "I like him a great deal." She was obviously disturbed. The slight accent was more pronounced than usual, Helen thought.

"Good," said Frank genially. "And if I'm any judge, it is, as Miss Duffy is wont to say, mutual. I'm sure. Which will be wonderful for Helen and me. Look at the choice of vacation spots we'd have, lolling in the sun by sea or on mountaintop."

"One if land, two if by sea, or is it the other way round?" his wife inquired.

"Silence, woman," said Frank dreamily. "A glass of coconut milk, ice cold and laced with rum, a couple of beautiful gals to fan me—Hawaiian, Indian, it wouldn't matter—guitars playing, my choice of samba or hula..."

Truly, Terry, great vistas open up before me."

"Surely," inquired Helen, "you haven't been drinking at this horrid hour?"

It was very early in the morning, the Johnstons having persuaded their guests to remain until Monday. The air was cold and fresh and the Parkway almost deserted.

Frank said, "I did my moderate tipping last night. I was interested to note that Russell doesn't appear to need the genie in the bottle, or was that because of Dick?" He added, "I'll make an inquiry or two—you needn't dig your nasty little elbow into my side, Helen, we stand in loco parentis to Terry here, if my Latin is as correct as Terry's Spanish."

"Loco is right, at any rate," Helen murmured.

"Anyway, I feel somewhat responsible for her."

"How too fearfully British," said his wife, "man of the house, master of all the females in it."

"Not a bad custom," Frank suggested.

"Where," asked Terry blandly,

"will you inquire?"

"Here and there. I know some people," he said obscurely.

"Christopher Russell is hardly a fortune hunter," said Helen, "if that's what you mean."

"That aspect hadn't occurred to me," said Frank, "in the circumstances. What I'm after is a character reference. How many discarded wives, if any, what vices, what virtues?"

Terry spoke with calculated laziness. She said, "Darling Frank, for an Englishman you are singularly quick on the trigger."

"I'm an American now," said Frank. "I love to jump to conclusions."

Helen yawned. "You'll break a leg someday," she said.

Frank and Terry went to dine with James Southard and his plain, delightful wife and Terry spent the evening admiring the house, enjoying the dinner, exclaiming over the studio and the portraits, and parrying Southard's insistence that she sit for him.

"How soon?" he demanded. She slid out deftly enough. She wasn't at all sure of her plans; she was booked for a number of visits; she would just be in and out of New York for a considerable time.

Helen applauded with her eyes. On Friday, at breakfast, Frank, who had come home late the night before, announced that his various spies and agents had made a complete dossier on Christopher Russell.

Terry said, "Interesting but unnecessary, as I haven't heard from him. For all I know he may be back in Honolulu by now."

"Of course," said Frank, ignoring that, "his war record is well known; when he first came to town it was in all the columns. That, and the heavy sugar."

He beamed at the pun. "All I've learned bears it out, and is, I hasten to add, favorable. No wives, at any time whatsoever; only child, parents deceased. Great jashings of relatives. Houses in Honolulu, also offices, also places on the other islands plus an island all their own, invitations to visit which being scarcer than to Moscow."

"All this," said Helen, "is common knowledge."

"Newspaper knowledge. But I talked to chaps who have investments in Island properties," said Frank.

He was on the verge of departure for the brokerage office in which he labored when the telephone rang and Margaret reported that it was for Miss Austin, "A Mr. Russell."

"How fortuitous," said Frank, grinning. He kissed his wife, smote Terry on her shoulder, and went out whistling.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—The fact that we have a nightclub brawl involving persons of some prominence on the average of once every two weeks, here in Manhattan, is not of itself especially interesting. However, sometimes the reasons for the powderpuff punchings are fascinating in an eerie way.

We had one a few weeks ago, just about when the East's tremendous dry spell was getting under way, that commanded the abrupt attention of those among us whose little minds are intrigued by such things.

This one took place on the sidewalk outside Billy Reed's Little Club in East 55th street, and the person of prominence involved was Alvin Rey, the orchestra leader and guitar player. You must assume for our purposes that a guitar player can be a person of prominence.

Well—it seems that Rey and a professional dancer companion got into an argument with an actor named Herbert Evers and his actress companion. Before we proceed, one might note with care that all those involved were people in show business. Summer is a barren time for show people, looking at it from a publicity angle.

This is what started this particular brawl: Rey's pretty drinking mate ordered a Pimm's No. 1 Cup. This is an exotic drink of which we will speak more fully later. Like an old-fashioned, it is full of what the barkeeps call garbage, and the customary garbage for a Pimm's No. 1 is a slice of cucumber.

Rey's companion said, in effect, don't put any of that cucumber in it but garnish it instead with a sprig of mint. Thank heavens she saved further confusion by not specifying whether the mint should be whole or crushed, thereby introducing a mint julep argument into the whole thing and bringing on chaos.

Evers' lovely companion, according to report, leaned over and addressed Rey's companion. "Pardon me," she said sweetly, "but I'm sure you'll prefer it with cucumber."

Rey's demure companion eyed her coldly. "Pardon me," she replied, "but Lord Pimm himself showed me how to make a Pimm's Cup with a mint sprig."

Whereupon the first lovely companion pushed a slice of cucumber into the face of the second sweet thing. This left Rey and Evers with no alternative. They had to go out on the sidewalk and swing fight.

EVENTUALLY ALL CONCERNED LANDED IN COURT, around dawn, and, following ritual, they settled their differences in the magistrate's chambers. The only persons troubled by the brawl seemed to be the police, who, several days later, announced darkly that if there were any more fights in high class saloons for any reason whatever, they were going to see to it that a few penalties were handed out.

Pimm's No. 1, the concoction that started all this, started becoming the drink in New York last summer. In lower circles, it is called a Singapore gin sling and is one of those deliciously sneaky bombshells that taste absolutely non-alcoholic and later explode internally and start you walking on your hands.

It had its beginnings more than a hundred years ago in Pimm's restaurant, situated a stone's throw from the Bank of England on the site of what was, back in 1499, the Hogshead tavern.

Wherever the gallant English army officer was, even after—Ondurman, the Sudan, Khartoum (surely you remember C. Aubrey Smith fighting it out on that thin red line)—Pimm's No. 1 went with him.

Its base is of gin and bitters, but its bottlers put in some secret ingredient known only to six of their top men, and all employees must agree in writing before joining the firm that should the full recipe ever become known to them, they never will divulge it, even if Humphrey Bogart beats them into insensibility and Dennis O'Keefe never does come with the squad car.

WELL—ALL THIS WOULD HAVE ADDED UP to just another saloon slugfest, except that a couple of weeks later Doris Lilly called me, and announced that she'd just become associated with Bob Taplinger's publicity firm.

Miss Lilly, some of you may remember, is our favorite New Yorker, the beautiful and Junoesque blonde whose date book has contained the best of American money and manhood and who is engaged in writing a volume called How to Marry a Millionaire.

Doris has an uncanny knack for getting publicity. Bob Taplinger is doing publicity for Pimm's No. 1 Cup. One of Doris' favorite saloons is Billy Reed's Little Club; she takes all her favorite newspapermen there to gossip and look on the wine when it is red, and that, of course, means me.

"Doris," I said, as gently as I could, "—about this Alvin Rey brawl over Pimm's No. 1, in Billy Reed's. Did you—" But Doris interrupted, breathlessly. "Oh, honey!" she said over the phone, "wasn't that just a shame? And wasn't it lucky that no one was hurt seriously and that everything turned out for the best, and—"

I sighed. "Doris," and concluded, defeated but gallant to the end, "let's have lunch sometime next week!"

Guard Unit Ready For Annual Camp

Co. 1 To Leave Here Sunday

Circleville's complete unit of Co. 1, 166th Infantry National Guards will leave Sunday for a two-week training camp in Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Jack Clifton, commander of the local unit, said he expects a 100 percent turnout for the training trip, since he has received word that none of the men is to be excused.

Clifton said the group will board a bus at Circleville Armory at 6:30 a. m. Sunday, travel to Columbus, board a special ONG train in Columbus and arrive in Camp Atterbury at about 3 p. m.

Meanwhile, an advance detail of two cooks is to leave Wednesday to attend cook's school in the camp, while a work detail is to leave Thursday to clean-up the barracks assigned to the local unit.

Altogether, according to the commander, 40 men and three other officers will make the trip this year.

THE OTHER officers are John McGinnis, executive officer; James Sensenbrenner, first lieutenant; and Jack White, second lieutenant.

Clifton pointed out that all but one or two of the local guardsmen have qualified on the rifle range during recent trips to Chillicothe, so that no range practice will be held when the group reaches camp.

However, the training to face the unit will consist of combat range fire with mock maneuvers and an overnight bivouac.

Officers are to receive specialized training in modern strategic warfare during the camp. The unit will return to Circleville Sept. 4, Clifton said.

Prosecutor Says He Agrees To Protect Lawyer

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17 — A police prosecutor testified that he agreed not to prosecute an attorney arrested on a drunk charge because it would have cost the attorney his job, as the police brutality probe moved into its fourth day of hearings here today.

Prosecutor Glenn E. Kemp said he made the agreement in exchange for a "release" signed by Otis Buchanan, relieving the police from liability in connection with Buchanan's spectacular arrest.

The attorney had testified earlier that he battled eight or ten policemen in the city jail, and that he was severely beaten after knocking down three of them.

The prosecutor said that without the release, the 14 patrolmen involved in the proceedings would have faced civil liability for false arrest.

The investigating committee, which started the probe last week when the Columbus Bar Association cited 11 cases of alleged excessive brutality by police, also heard testimony of a

All Banks Get Nod To Handle County Funds

Every bank in Pickaway County will be permitted to share in handling deposits totalling $415,000 of county funds during the next two years.

County Auditor Fred Tipton said banks in which the funds may be deposited were chosen by the county commissioners during their regular meeting Monday. Deposits are of two kinds, active and inactive, he said. Banks chosen will handle deposits from Aug. 23, 1949 to Aug. 23, 1951.

The auditor explained that inactive deposits draw one fourth of one percent interest, while active deposits draw no interest at all since the money in this case is continually being withdrawn and replaced to meet county financial needs.

Banks selected to handle active deposits are Circleville First National, $70,000; Circleville Second National, $70,000; Circleville Third National, $60,000; Circleville Savings and Banking Co., $65,000; and Farmers National of Williamsport, $15,000. Active deposits in all banks total $280,000.

TIPTON EXPLAINED that the sums listed for each bank are not necessarily the amounts that the county will have on deposit, but simply the maximum sums that may be deposited. Actual deposits may be lesser sums.

Banks selected to handle inactive deposits are Farmers National of Williamsport, $25,000; The Citizens Bank of Ashville, $50,000; Ashville Banking Co., $40,000; Scioto Bank of Commercial Point, $10,000; and the First National Bank of New Holland, $10,000. Inactive deposits in all banks total $135,000.

Three trustees to the cooperative are to be elected during the business session in the morning, according to local representatives.

6 New Boy Scout Units Needed In County, Claim

Pickaway District Boy Scout leaders have voiced a need for six new Scouting organizations to be started here during 1950.

Ray Turner, field executive, reported the local district now is leading the region in membership with a 35 percent increase during 1948, but pointed out there still is a need for new units.

Turner said a total of 311 boys now are enrolled in Scouting here: 81 Cub Scouts, 214 Boy Scout and 16 Senior Scouts.

He said that two new Cub Packs should be started in 1950, along with three new Boy Scout

Council Hears Rosewood Water Main Request

A request to have water mains extended along Rosewood avenue to service new houses was heard by Circleville city council Tuesday night.

The request was made in a letter to council from M. E. Swackhammer, who said he had recently started construction of three houses on Rosewood avenue.

Councilman Boyd Horn suggested that Ervin Leist, city waterworks manager, be given orders to install the water mains.

Councilman Ray Anderson urged caution, however. He said he thought council should ask the public utilities board to appear before council to talk the matter over before any such orders were issued.

LEIST EXPLAINED to council that the project involved more than the water department was able to handle this year. He pointed out that while the yearly budget was set up to meet most needs, the cost of installing new mains was not included.

Leist added that the project would involve closing off a portion of Court street, which, since it is part of a national highway, would mean obtaining the state's permission first. He said that the department would probably attempt the project sometime next year.

He pointed out that the new age reduction will affect nearly 900 Pickaway County youngsters either now enlisted in Scouting or interested in joining.

Tinkers Downed 1-0 In Playoff Of Tournament

Tinks softball am's odds on taking the championship of the district softball tournament were reduced to 50-50 Tuesday night when Portsmouth Legion handed it a 1-0 defeat.

Prior to the Tuesday scuffle the Tinkers were odds-on favorites to take the tourney crown, since they had to be beaten twice before losing out while the Legion could stand but one defeat.

However, after the Tuesday tilt both teams are tied for tourney honors. The winner of the next game will walk away with the title.

Neither Tinks nor the Legion crews were able to chalk up a score in the regular seven innings of play in the contest, while Portsmouth registered the lone winning run in the last of the eighth.

IN THE EIGHTH, with none down, the first Legion batsman laid into a pitch to rap out a two-baser, and he scored when the next man safetied into center-field.

Portsmouth Hurler Wayne Widdig whiffed 15 of the Tinkers in the match and allowed only one hit to tally the shutout win. The lone Tink safety was hit by Lloyd Minor, who laced a single into right field.

Stilman Morrison was charged with the loss, striking out seven Portsmouth players, walking two and allowing five hits.

6 VETERANS AND 50 NEWCOMERS

Undeclared Local Gridders Get Call Back To Action

First call for the 1949 Circleville high school football season has been issued.

At least 56 high school boys, including six of last year's veterans, are slated to don practice togs for the first time this season at 9 a. m. Monday.

At the top of the list of returning veterans is Harold "Sandy" Hill, who last year set the South Central Ohio League afire with his running, passing, punting and extra-point footwork.

This year's squad will have its work sliced up and ready for packaging, since it will be the undeclared defender of the SCO league crown.

TIGER GRIDDERS last season swooped down on its eight game schedule to walk off with an untied, unbeaten record.

Head Coach Steve Brudzinski and Line Coach Tom Bennett, mentors of last year's championship squad, report that 56 potential gridders have indicated they would turn out this fall.

In addition to the powerful threat of Hill, the mentors will have four other senior lettermen and a junior regular back in the lineup this fall.

The other regulars are Bob "Brains" McAllister, John Phifer, Carl "Abe" Rihl, Jim Starkey and John Valentine.

A total of 17 freshmen have indicated they would turn out for the practice sessions, 16 sophomores, 12 juniors and 11 seniors.

Of the 56 lads expected to report Monday only seven will be reporting for the first time, Brudzinski said.

He said two practice sessions a day will be held until school begins. The practices will begin at 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. daily and each session will last nearly an hour and a half.

THE COACH added that the first week of practice will consist of conditioning exercises in gym equipment. Pads are not to be brought out until the latter part of the second week.

Circleville's first foe during the 1949 season will be Columbus Holy Rosary Sept. 16. Rosary has won only two or three games away from the locals since the schools have scheduled each other, a period of at least 10 years.

Complete list of the lads who have indicated they will turn out for the first session, excluding the lettermen, is as follows:

Juniors—Bill Stout, Sheldon Winner, Lester Smith, Lowell Thomas, Ted Sims, Harold McClarren, Don Mancini, John Lampson, Eugene Kerns, John Harris and Bill Brown.

Thursday, Rider as well as three other division chiefs were transferred to the new department. Their jobs were supposed to be secure.

Maybe Rider's is. But you can get long odds in Columbus if you want to bet.

The 54-year-old, burly-but-one-legged Rider—he lost a leg in a 1940 auto crash in which first reports had him killed—has long been the stormy petrel of the wildlife picture.

As "conservation commissioner" it was his ticklish job to advise the erstwhile "Conservation Commission"—now the "Wildlife Council"—in the establishment of game policies.

Many of the so-called sportsmen's groups—meaning the half to three-quarters of a million organized hunters and fishermen—objected strenuously to his programs. They charged also that the department was being run too much for the benefit of the commission members.

Some of the state's outdoor writers took up the cudgels. In fact, one Columbus writer, now a bitter critic, was once a member of the Rider staff.

There remained, of course, a few groups, and writers, who swore by him instead of at him. Otherwise the Rider head would probably have fallen to the ax long ago.

But, in the new department, there seems to be the feeling that the job of unifying all the state's conservation activities is too large and too important to be hampered by petty personalities.

MARION'S job requires almost the wisdom and tact of Solomon to weld into one unit the various once-bickering divisions now brought under the conservation umbrella.

Rider's critics quickly point out that his division was quite vociferous in opposing the unification bill. A few other divisions, such as the water division and the forestry division, also opposed unification but less violently.

If the new department is to work out, it will require the fullest cooperation of all participants. A constant bickering among the organized sportsmen would not, obviously, be conducive to harmony.

Therefore, so one point of view has it, Rider must go.

CHUCK MARION IS SILENT

Capital Sources Saying Buck Rider To Lose Job

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17—The betting's about four-to-one that H. A. "Buck" Rider, a veteran of ten years of service to Ohio fish and game, is about to become one of those well-known "victims of circumstances."

As of today, it seems in the cards that Rider, formerly "conservation commissioner" and now chief of the wildlife division of the new, unified "Department of Natural Resources," is going to be eased out of his job in the next few months.

The new natural resources director, A. W. "Chuck" Marion, a Circleville native, naturally refused all comment for publication.

But one source, which should know, put it this way: "I like Buck—he's a swell guy personally. And he's done a good job."

"But he's the center of so many petty jealousies that I don't see how he can be kept and still maintain a semblance of harmony in the department."

UNDER THE LAW which set up the new department as of last

Cobb And Welch Are Suspended

Scheduled hearings on two alleged doping cases at Chicago's Sportsman's Park during the recent meet there have been postponed until next week.

Involved are drivers Eddie Cobb of Washington C. H. and Walter (Pee Wee) Welch of Columbus. Both have been suspended pending the hearing.

President Henry Knauf of the United States Trotting Association, announced the postponement in Springfield, Ill., Tuesday.

Rookies Seen Getting Chance

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17—Major league rookies will probably be able to join the old-timers in the Cuban Winter loops this year.

Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, said that a change of heart has occurred among the big-wigs of baseball, who voted last July that players with less than 45 days in the big time could not play in Cuba.

He said the idea is not definite yet, but indications are that the restriction will be lifted.

Boston Stunned As Southworth Is Given Leave

BOSTON, Aug. 17—Boston's stunned baseball fandom looked uncertainly today to Former Coach Johnny Cooney to lead the faltering Braves to another National League pennant.

Tribe President Lou Perini named Cooney as acting manager to replace Billy Southworth, the "miracle manager" of yesterday who quit unexpectedly yesterday.

Sports scribes and fans alike were speculating today as to whether "poor health" was the real reason for the leave of absence granted to Southworth for the balance of the season.

Southworth arrived last night in Columbus with his wife, Mabel, and their daughter, Carole. He stayed the night with friends, then left for an undisclosed place for a short rest before he returns to his farm home near Sunbury, O., in Delaware County.

He had no comment on the Braves, saying that all information must come from the Boston front office.

In announcing the leave, Perini said he had been greatly disturbed by Southworth's failing health and had personally proposed that Billy call it a campaign now lest his health become too deeply impaired.

Perini named Cooney to take Southworth's place until the end of the current campaign. Southworth, in his fourth season as manager of the Braves, still has three more full seasons to go under his present contract, (reportedly $40,000).

Archie Moore May Meet Maxim

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17—The Becker Brothers of Cincinnati are still trying to get somebody to fight Joey Maxim for the light heavy title, and today they came up with Archie Moore.

Gus Lesnevich, who recently got his pride battered in a title bout with Ezzard Charles, was originally scheduled to rematch Joey for the crown he lost, but a contract squabble resulted in the substitution.

Sammy Becker told the Cincinnati Boxing Commission that Moore has consented to the fight, but that he still has to get Maxim's consent. The fight will take place in the Queen City Sept. 20.

Mighty Medium Wins At Westbury

WESTBURY, N. Y., Aug. 17—Mighty Medium scored his sixth victory of the season last night in taking the featured Melfa Pace for a purse of $2,500.

The speedy four-year-old, driven by Frank Safford, took an early lead and held the advantage to the wire as Mighty Medium closed a length behind for second with Direct Wyn taking third.

Yank-Mexican Parley Booked

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17—Minor League Czar George M. Trautman will meet with other minor league executives of the U. S. and Mexico in Fort Worth, Tex., to discuss the baseball situation.

Trautman said the meeting, which starts Saturday, is for the discussion of "routine matters and the present and future relations" between baseball in the two countries.

At least 56 high school boys, including six of last year's veterans, are slated to don practice togs for the first time this season at 9 a. m. Monday.

At the top of the list of returning veterans is Harold "Sandy" Hill, who last year set the South Central Ohio League afire with his running, passing, punting and extra-point footwork.

This year's squad will have its work sliced up and ready for packaging, since it will be the undefeated defender of the SCO league crown.

TIGER GRIDDERS last season swooped down on its eight game schedule to walk off with an untied, unbeaten record.

Head Coach Steve Brudzinski and Line Coach Tom Bennett, mentors of last year's championship squad, report that 56 potential gridders have indicated they would turn out this fall.

In addition to the powerful threat of Hill, the mentors will have four other senior lettermen and a junior regular back in the lineup this fall.

The other regulars are Bob "Brains" McAllister, John Phifer, Carl "Abe" Rihl, Jim Starkey and John Valentine.

A total of 17 freshmen have indicated they would turn out for the practice sessions, 16 sophomores, 12 juniors and 11 seniors.

Of the 56 lads expected to report Monday only seven will be reporting for the first time, Brudzinski said.

He said two practice sessions a day will be held until school begins. The practices will begin at 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. daily and each session will last nearly an hour and a half.

THE COACH added that the first week of practice will consist of conditioning exercises in gym equipment. Pads are not to be brought out until the latter part of the second week.

Circleville's first foe during the 1949 season will be Columbus Holy Rosary Sept. 16. Rosary has won only two or three games away from the locals since the schools have scheduled each other, a period of at least 10 years.

Complete list of the lads who have indicated they will turn out for the first session, excluding the lettermen, is as follows:

Juniors—Bill Stout, Sheldon Winner, Lester Smith, Lowell Thomas, Ted Sims, Harold McClaren, Don Mancini, John Lampson, Eugene Kerns, John Harris and Bill Brown.

Capital Sources Saying Buck Rider To Lose Job

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17—The betting's about four-to-one that H. A. "Buck" Rider, a veteran of ten years of service to Ohio fish and game, is about to become one of those well-known "victims of circumstances."

As of today, it seems in the hands that Rider, formerly "conservation commissioner" and now chief of the wildlife division of the new, unified "Department of Natural Resources," is going to be eased out of his job in the next few months.

The new natural resources director, A. W. "Chuck" Marion, a Circleville native, naturally refused all comment for publication.

But one source, which should know, put it this way:

"I like Buck—he's a swell guy personally. And he's done a good job."

"But he's the center of so many petty jealousies that I don't see how he can be kept and still maintain a semblance of harmony in the department."

UNDER THE LAW which set up the new department as of last

Cobb And Welch Are Suspended

Scheduled hearings on two alleged doping cases at Chicago's Sportsman's Park during the recent meet there have been postponed until next week.

Involved are drivers Eddie Cobb of Washington C. H. and Walter (Pee Wee) Welch of Columbus. Both have been suspended pending the hearing.

President Henry Knauf of the United States Trotting Association, announced the postponement in Springfield, Ill., Tuesday.

Rookies Seen Getting Chance

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17—Major league rookies will probably be able to join the old-timers in the Cuban Winter loops this year.

Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, said that a change of heart has occurred among the big-wigs of baseball, who voted last July that players with less than 45 days in the big time could not play in Cuba.

He said the idea is not definite yet, but indications are that the restriction will be lifted.

IN A NEW YORK GAME, played at the Polo Grounds, leg and arm amputees of the war staged a baseball benefit game witnessed by many prominent fans including movie actress Lizbeth Scott (center). Shown are Mike Alhanti of the "Flat Tires"—leg amputees, and Bob Anderson of "Broken Wings"—arm amputees. (International)

Boston Stunned As Southworth Is Given Leave

BOSTON, Aug. 17 — Boston's stunned baseball fandom looked uncertainly today to Former Coach Johnny Cooney to lead the faltering Braves to another National League pennant.

Tribe President Lou Perini named Cooney as acting manager to replace Billy Southworth, the "miracle manager" of yesterday who quit unexpectedly yesterday.

Sports scribes and fans alike were speculating today as to whether "poor health" was the real reason for the leave of absence granted to Southworth for the balance of the season.

Southworth arrived last night in Columbus with his wife, Mabel, and their daughter, Carole. He stayed the night with friends, then left for an undisclosed place for a short rest before he returns to his farm home near Sunbury, O., in Delaware County.

He had no comment on the Braves, saying that all information must come from the Boston front office.

In announcing the leave, Perini said he had been greatly disturbed by Southworth's failing health and had personally proposed that Billy call it a campaign now lest his health become too deeply impaired.

Perini named Cooney to take Southworth's place until the end of the current campaign. Southworth, in his fourth season as manager of the Braves, still has three more full seasons to go under his present contract, (reportedly $40,000).

Archie Moore May Meet Maxim

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17 — The Becker Brothers of Cincinnati are still trying to get somebody to fight Joey Maxim for the light heavy title, and today they came up with Archie Moore.

Gus Lesnevich, who recently got his pride battered in a title bout with Ezzard Charles, was originally scheduled to rematch Joey for the crown he lost, but a contract squabble resulted in the substitution.

Sammy Becker told the Cincinnati Boxing Commission that Moore has consented to the fight, but that he still has to get Maxim's consent. The fight will take place in the Queen City Sept. 20.

Mighty Medium Wins At Westbury

WESTBURY, N. Y., Aug. 17—Mighty Medium scored his sixth victory of the season last night in taking the featured Melba Pace for a purse of $2,500.

The speedy four-year-old, driven by Frank Safford, took an early lead and held the advantage to the wire as Mighty Dexter closed a length behind second with Direct Wyn taking third.

Yank-Mexican Parley Booked

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17—Minor League Czar George M. Trautman will meet with other minor league executives of the U. S. and Mexico in Fort Worth, Tex., to discuss the baseball situation.

Trautman said the meeting, which starts Saturday, is for the discussion of "routine matters and the present and future relations" between baseball in the two countries.

Six Ordinances Read Before Council Here

Circleville city council listened to the reading of six ordinances during its regular Tuesday night meeting. None was passed since there were not enough councilmen present to vote on suspension of rules.

First ordinance read was one to appropriate $2,000 to be turned over to the board of governors of Berger hospital to be used for operating expenses. A similar sum has been appropriated by Pickaway County commissioners.

Another ordinance calls for appropriation of $500 from the sewage rental fund to the maintenance and supply fund and extra labor fund of the department of sewage.

Ervin Leist, city waterworks manager, said the purpose of the ordinance was to pay for repair and installation of a deep well pump supplying fresh water to the sewage plant.

The pump went out of action last week when a drive shaft snapped. Leist said the pump was placed back in service at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Appropriation of $935.89 from the general fund to the department of public service for a sanitary sewer on Barnes avenue is called for in the third ordinance.

FOURTH ORDINANCE asks appropriation of $2,811.70 from the general fund to the department of public service for a 36-inch sewer to be installed from the rear of the Mary E. Shea residence on East Main street to Hargus creek.

The project would provide a tile sewer part of the distance and open ditch the rest of the way.

Fifth ordinance authorizes the city service director to enter into a contract with Pickaway Dairy and Ankrom's lumber yard to install a storm sewer 450 feet long on West Main street.

Costs of the project would be split three ways, with the city appropriating $302 from the general fund for its share. Total cost of the project is estimated at $902.50.

Last ordinance calls for an appropriation of $1,122.50 for installation of a storm sewer on Warr street to be known as the Drive to Speakman's plant.

concerned are those in the employ of employers hiring three or more persons; exceptions include governmental, agricultural, railroad and domestic workers as well as those employed by religious and charitable organizations, according to C. C. Thomas, local BUC official.

The changes, based upon amendments enacted during the most recent legislative session, involve important additions to both the worker's rights and obligations under the Unemployment Compensation Law. Among the requirements a worker must meet to be eligible for benefits under the amended Law are the following:

1. He must have been in employment covered by the Ohio Law in 14 weeks during his base period and must have earned $240 or more in that period. The base period of a benefit applicant includes the first four of the last five completed calendar quarters immediately preceding the first day of the week in which he files a valid claim.

2. He must be actively seeking suitable work. In determining whether or not a job is suitable, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation's administrator must take into consideration the worker's prior training and experience, the degree of risk to his health, safety and morals, his physical fitness for the work involved and other factors.

3. He must be unable to obtain suitable work.

4. He must accept an offer of suitable work when directed to do so by a public employment center and must not turn down any referral to such suitable work.

5. He must be able and available for suitable work.

6. He must sign an affidavit to the effect that he neither advocates the overthrow of the U. S. Government by force nor belongs to an organization which advocates such action.

In addition to setting forth the above requirements for unemployment benefits, the amended law also provides that no person may be paid benefits for any period of unemployment if:

1. Such unemployment is directly due to a labor dispute.

2. The claimant knowingly makes a false statement or fails to report a material fact relative to such unemployment.

3. The claimant fails or refuses to report to the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation or any of its designated agencies as required by the BUC's rules.

4. The claimant leaves his job to attend school or because of marital, parental, filial or other domestic obligations.

5. The claimant is discharged for dishonesty in connection with his work or becomes unemployed by reason of commitment to a penal institution.

Dredge Bucket Snaps Gas Line

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 17 — An Ohio river dredge dropped its bucket on a 10-inch feeder line yesterday and caused a break that shut off the cities of Portsmouth and New Boston from their gas supplies for more than seven hours.

Service was restored at 6 p. m. last night after the break occurred at 10:45 a. m. Fire chiefs in both cities said no explosions or fires occurred.

Chauncey W. Baughn, president of the Portsmouth Gas Co., which draws its supply from the United Fuel Co., said the dredge boat lowered its bucket on the line.
